
About the NRT of Easton and Sheep Pasture

It is the mission of the Natural Resources Trust of Easton (NRT) to educate about significant natural and cultural resources and to acquire and preserve land of special character for the benefit of the public.

Sheep Pasture, the NRT's working farm and conservation area, located off Main Street in Easton, is home to chickens, ducks, turkeys, cows, goats, and of course - sheep! The 154 acre property is comprised of several wild habitats including forest, meadow, stream, and marsh. These beautiful habitats provide homes for diverse, local flora and fauna, and create an extraordinary learning environment for kids of all ages. The NRT provides environment-based programming for scouts and others. We connect kids with nature, making it fun to learn about all aspects of nature - from animal adaptations to geologic studies!

About Scout Programs at Sheep Pasture

Our staff of naturalists conduct scouting classes year round, weather permitting. Most classes include a topic discussion, a group activity, and an exploration hike through our beautiful Sheep Pasture Farm and Conservation Area. Each class runs for approximately one hour to an hour and fifteen minutes long. Contact us today for scheduling information!

The cost per program is $5 per child - with a group minimum of $50.

Programs are formatted to accommodate groups of 10 or more. We also offer extended programs for an additional fee.
